1. General Program Information

The EIGF program will be conducted by the Partnership for Public Service located in Washington, DC. The Partnership is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization that works to revitalize our federal government by inspiring a new generation to serve and by transforming the way government works. The program offers hands-on leadership development for project managers and acquisition professional. It is a leadership development program specifically designed for federal and state government professionals. The program explores ways to retain the best leaders in the government acquisition concentration community (including contracting officers, program and project managers and others whose success depends on strategic acquisition leadership) and encourage them to develop and practice new skill sets, behaviors and assume more strategic roles in their agencies. The program transforms managers into leaders. These same leaders can serve as mentors for the next generation.

The program provides participants with hands-on, results-based leadership development and a transformational experience which concentrates on leadership and management challenges specific to government. It meets the interagency training requirements necessary for OPM approved candidate development program and is designed to complement the core qualifications for members of the Senior Executive Service.

The EIGF program is a year-long program during which the fellows will learn:

- To achieve and measure results in complex environments
- To build partnerships and motivate teams
- To develop skills for dealing with difficult ethical situations

- To apply business acumen to government problems

Individuals will be required to participate at events in Washington, DC and other locations outside of the Washington, DC area. USAASC will fund tuition, travel and per diem for all 2010 participants.
